BIG BAY NOTES.

The largest amount of a banknote introduced in 1877 was £1,000. It is said that two notes for £100,000 each, and two for £500,000 each, were once captured and seized. A butcher, who had amassed an immense fortune in the war times, went one day with one of these £500,000 notes to a private banker, asking for the loan of £5,000, and wishing to deposit the big note as security in the banker's hand, saying he had kept it for years. The £5,000 was at once handed over, but the banker halted at the same time, to the butcher the folly of hoarding such a sum and losing the interest.

"Very true, sir," replied the banker, "but I like the look on your face very well, but I have never seen of the same kind at home."

An eccentric gentleman from London framed a bank post bill for £30,000, and exhibited it for five years in one of his sitting-rooms. The fifth year he died, when the "picture" was at once taken down and cashed by the heirs.

Some years ago, at a nobleman's house near Hyde Park, a dispute arose about a certain passage in Scripture, and a dean who was present denying that there was any such text at all, a Bible was called for. When it was opened a marker was found in it, which on examination proved to be a bank post bill for £40,000. It might possibly have been placed there as a reproach to the son, who, perhaps, did not consult the Bible so often as his mother could have wished.

A GOOD BEGINNING.

Most persons want to begin at the top. Instead of taking hold of the first piece of work that comes to hand, and driving it through as if it were the grandest thing they ever expected to do, they either decline it because it does not meet their taste, or they do it in a half-hearted way, because they take no real interest in it. Their thoughts are so far in advance of what they are doing that the work in hand is only half done. It is the use of the first opportunity that makes a second opportunity, but thousands are waiting for the second to come first; they are expecting miracles when they ought to be working along the normal lines of success. It is the boy who takes a place in the country store and puts brains, strength and heart into the weighing of sugar and the measuring of potatoes, who finally sits down in his office in a great warehouse and telegraphs his orders to the ends of the earth; the other boy, who wanted to be a great merchant, by omitting the sugar and potatoes continues in the obscurity of his native village. These small duties, these menial opportunities, are the training schools of success, and no one gets the prizes who does not take his degree in them.

MEN OF WORDS.

There are some men who use words as riflemen use bullets. They say but little. The few words used go right to the mark. They let you talk, and guide with their hands and face, on and on, till what you say can be answered in a word or two, and then they lance out a sentence, pierce the matter to the quick and are done. Your conversation falls into their mind as a river into a deep chasm and is lost from sight by depth and darkness. They will sometimes surprise you with a few words that go to the mark like a gunshot, and then they are silent, as if they were lazing. Such men are safe counselors, and true friends where they profess to be such. To them truth is more valuable than gold, while pretension is too gaudy to deceive them. Words without point, to them, are titles without merit, only betraying the weakness of the blinded dupe who are ever used as promoters to men's schemes.

COULDN'T HELP A LOPET.

The keeping of a dangerous secret is a proverbially difficult for women, and one will sometimes bubble from the lips of a great man in spite of all efforts to suppress it. An instance of this kind is the case of Thornton, who was porter of a bank at Parsons, Kansas. Three years ago the cashier's accounts were found to be deficient, he paid over the money and resigned his position. Thornton was closely watched for a time, but nothing was discovered, and the matter was forgotten. But recently a friend of the porter was in a burst of confidence made aware of the fact that the missing money had been found by the latter while cleaning out a drawer in the bank. The friend forced a division, and in turn confided the secret to a man who was his tenant on a farm. A quarrel concerning rent arose, and the tenant lodged an information against both Thornton and his confidant, and now they languish in prison cells. But the reputation of that cashier was a wreck during all those three years.

SHOT AND NOTT.

A duel was lately fought in Texas by Alexander Shott and John S. Nott. Nott was shot and Shott was not. In this case it was better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, and Shott avowed that he shot Nott, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot notwithstanding circumstantial evidence is not always good. It may be made to appear that the shot Shott shot shot Nott, or as accidents with firearms are frequent, it may be possible that the shot Shott shot shot himself, when the whole affair would resolve itself into its original elements, and Shott would be shot, and Nott would be not. We think, however, that the shot Shott shot shot not Shott but Nott. Anyway, it is hard to tell who was shot.

A VENTRILOQUIST'S JOKE.

Frederick McCabe, the ventriloquist, is a great practical joker. Several years ago he was on board a Mississippi River steamer, and, forming an acquaintance with the engineer, was allowed the freedom of the engine room. He took a seat in a corner, and, pulling his hat down over his eyes, appeared to be in reverie. Presently a certain part of the machinery began to squeak. The engineer oiled it and went about his usual duties. In the course of a few minutes the squeaking was heard again, and the engineer rushed over, oil can in hand, to lubricate the same spindle. Again he returned to his post, but it was only a few minutes until the same old spindle was squeaking louder than ever. More oil was administered, but the engineer began to smell a rat. Pretty soon the spindle squeaked again, and slipping up behind McCabe, the engineer squirted a half pint of oil down the joker's back. "There," said he, "I guess that spindle won't squeak any more."

Dobie & Co., shipbuilders Glasgow, have failed. Twelve hundred workmen are out.

The Detroit Evening Journal adopted 24 o'clock notation on Saturday last, and announces its 14 o'clock, 10 o'clock and 17 o'clock editions.

Required a special meeting of the Lindsay Town Council to decide whether the local chief of police should have a red stripe down his trousers or not.

HONESTY IN WORK.

We are all of us working in one way or another, but how many of us are possessed with an earnest desire that the work we put from our hands shall be thoroughly, honestly, faithfully performed that shall fulfill its purpose, and withstand the ravages of time? The great difference in labor is not what is done—not the kind of work we perform—but the spirit we put into it. From the cleansing of a room to the purification of a Government, from the clearing of a forest to the chiseling of a statue, from the humblest work of the hand to the noblest work of the heart and brain, it is the determination to make it of the best possible quality that places it in the front rank. The work that is performed only for the sake of what it will bring, not for what it will carry forth, is like cloth of shoddy, which may please the eye, but will not wear. It is cheap, flimsy stuff, woven with no nobler purpose than to hold together long enough to be bought and paid for.

Hamilton is invaded by ghosts. The people of Haliburton complain of the irregularity of the Midland Railway, and hope the Great Trunk will give them better service.

John Benkenin, N.S., has won the first prize—the Queen's—of New-castle-on-Tyne for applied mechanics from twenty competitors.

Matilda Lakes, an elderly female of Hamilton, threatened to commit suicide Friday, by drowning herself in the bay, and was fined $2 next morning.

VIENNA
Bread and Biscuit Manufacturers.

Have fitted up and now have in full operation a Vienna Oven, adapted expressly for the manufacture of Vienna and High Classed Bread and Biscuits.

The principal advantage derived from this oven is the bread being baked in a moist atmosphere by means of a reel, which revolves the bread round a center, in such a manner as to keep the crust moist. The moist keeps the steam and soft and palatable, being perfectly white and free from all artificial coloring. Also, when used, which makes it very early dispensed, all the moisture and substance being retained.

In connection with this business, M. & Co. have prepared Tuffit's Patent Machinery for the manufacture of
AERATED WATERS.

The machine of Tuffit's Patent is sufficient to produce all the aerated water consumed in the West.

THE STRIKE

The strike of the engineers on the C.P.R. has virtually come to an end, and the men have been defeated in their object. It appears that the engineers were receiving 46 per mile and a bonus of $12 when 2,600 miles had been accomplished in one month. The management determined to reduce this bonus to $6 per month and asked the engineers to sign an agreement to that effect. This they refused. The President of the Brotherhood of Engineers refused to sustain the strikers. Mr. Van Horn is filling the places vacated by the strikers with new men and anticipates running regular trains in a few days. About a week's delay has been occasioned by the trouble. The regular mail is carried in at night and the train will leave for the east to-morrow morning.

BOUNDARIES

A report has been current for the past week that the eastern boundary of British Columbia has not been properly understood. The prevailing opinion has been that the summit of the Rockies was the dividing line between British Columbia and the North-West Territories. But a new theory seems to have sprung up, that British Columbia was to extend 600 miles from the coast, and therefore its domains would include Calgary. An outsider can scarcely imagine the joy which prevailed when this news was believed to be a fact. "Now the mine will be developed," said one. "No more leases," said another. "No more permits," hissed another. "A voice in our own government," from a world-be MP.

As far as we are able to learn, all these notions must fall to the ground. The boundaries are clearly defined as follows: On the north by the 49th parallel, on the east the 120th line of longitude, as far south as latitude 54, from which point the Rockies are to be the dividing line.

We cannot think this gives the entire mountain to British Columbia, but are still persuaded the dividing line will be the summit. Yet the feeling which this rumor has created ought not to be without its lessons to the Dominion Government. There must be something radically wrong when the whole community, both Conservatives and Reformers, express such a feeling of joy in imagining themselves within the precincts of an adjoining Province. If the Government are wise they will observe the handwriting upon the wall.

FISH CREEK

The neighbourhood long known by the above names to have a post office and a weekly mail service. An unfortunate circumstance in connection with this fact is the name with which the postal authorities have seen fit to adorn it. Henceforth it will glory in the classic name of Midnapore—a name imported from the East Indies. However, the new name cannot retard its progress. Even since our last visit we saw signs of decided improvement.

Mr. Glen is erecting a commodious stable. Mr. Shaw's house is about completed. This gentleman, after January 1st, will take charge of the mails at this office.

Capt. Bosworth's palatial residence is much too good for a bachelor. Mr. Robinson, further up the Creek, has quite comfortable quarters. Mr. Beubeau has opened a coal mine and expects to begin delivering in a short time.

Mr. Vetter has just threshed his grain, and the large yield and superior quality has made him quite popular, and has imparted fresh courage to the new settlers, whose spirits had been somewhat dampened by the reports of ice and snow abounding throughout the whole year. We understand it is Mr. Vetter's intention to plant fruit trees next year, and he is confident of success.

Mr. Thos. Armstrong and Mr. J. Holmes, on this side of the Creek, have some places, and the whole settlement has an appearance of enterprise, which promises in the near future a district which will be an importance with much older places in the east.

PINE CREEK

For some time past we had determined to visit the different settlements in the vicinity, for the purpose of seeing the country for ourselves, and also becoming acquainted with the settlers. Accordingly last Friday morning we mounted a canoe and set forth for the much talked of locality Pine Creek. The weather was almost of summer temperature, and as we entered early along the rolling prairie with the mountains looming up on our right, and horses and cattle feeding on the knolls, giving silent testimony of the richness and luxuriance of the fodder, the thought occurred to us over and over again, how is it possible that this rich country, with a climate unparalleled and unexcelled on the whole continent, should remain so long unknown? Here was grass in such quantity that thousands of cattle could find their own living throughout the entire year, and surpass the best stall fed animals of the east, either for dairy or table purposes. A soil which only needs the hand of the husbandman to break up the soil and sow the grain, to feed forth in all the glory and splendor of a sufficient and rich harvest.

On reaching the creek we drew up at a house on the roadside, occupied by Mr. J. Owens, who has a comfortable building and has every facility for the entertainment of travellers. After halting our party we set out to call on some of the settlers in the vicinity, and our first stop was at

Mr. LeCren's, who a few months ago arrived from England, and after spending some time prospecting for a suitable location settled on the Creek and is now erecting a fine large house, from which a magnificent view of the mountains is obtained. Mr. and Mrs. LeCren expressed themselves delighted with the place. The clear atmosphere and wealth of sunshine which here abounds, having had an exhilarating influence on their health and spirits.

Mr. LeCren, whom we next visited, and whose hospital we enjoyed for the night, is quite comfortably settled, having a large well built house, good stables and sheds, extensive fields well fenced and cultivated, the whole place giving evidence of thrift and care.

Passing on we found Mr. Joseph Moss and the Jacques Brothers. The former with about 50 acres breaking, and the latter about 40 acres. Each of these parties have stacks of grain which they were engaged in threshing, and from what we saw we are able to anticipate a liberal yield, notwithstanding the grain was green on spring breaking.

We must congratulate the settlers on the good taste displayed in the choice of location. Two other attractions helped only to the quality of the soil, but being Pine Creek, a fine sand soil which cannot be surpassed in excellence, and the sites chosen for the dwellings to be in such a character to inspire even the most unromantic natures with feelings of delight at the location which nature discloses to the view.

In this neighbourhood wild fruits, such as raspberries, strawberries and gooseberries are found in abundance. At Mr. LeCren's we enjoyed the first natural trout we have seen in the country. The time will soon come when no settler's place will be complete without all such luxuries.

Passing up the Creek, we discovered most of the settlers were away from home; but Messrs. Campbell and Smith (and others whose names we did not learn), have places of which any one might feel justly proud.

One thing we regretted—to find so many bachelors, believing as we do that "a man is only half a man till he gets a wife." But from some reports which we heard, a number of them are about to follow the good example set them by Mr. Robb, and sacrifice a thirdly wife to prohibit their affairs.

CORRESPONDENCE

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by correspondents.

THE ELBOW BRIDGE

To THE EDITOR.
Sir—Referring to traffic and passenger bridge across Elbow River. The promoters have not been idle or negligent. The subscription list, amongst the residents of Calgary, amounts to nearly $700, and their petition to the Ottawa Government for a grant of $600 was forwarded early in November, and the following reply has been received from the Department of Interior:

"I am directed by the Minister of the Interior to acknowledge receipt of your letter enclosing a petition from certain residents of Calgary respecting the building of a bridge across the Elbow River, and to say that the matter has been referred to Lieutenant-Governor Bowdler for his report thereon."

Nothing further can be done with respect to Government grant, and Mr. Bowdler forwards his report, but as a really good and substantial bridge, with piers, will cost from $2,500 to $3,000, those residents who are most interested in getting a bridge built at once, and who have not already subscribed, had better show their energy to self, privately or by calling at my "shack," and putting their names down for a good round sum; and then, if we get subsidy from Government, the work can be started at once.

Your obedient servant,
J. K. OSWALD.

REV. JOHN MCLEAN.

The Rev. John McLean who so recently visited Calgary, and rendered such efficient aid at the dedication of the Methodist Church, is as is known to many of our readers, a missionary among the Blood Indians, in the vicinity of Fort McLeod. He has proved himself to be a patient, faithful and zealous Christian missionary, as well as an ardent student, not only of general literature, but also of the language of the natives among whom his life of toil is being spent. He is the friend of Christianity in the east, and a title of the preachers and hardships which Mr. McLean, and all similar missionaries have to endure, we are sure their spirit of liberality would more frequently assume a tangible form. But Mr. McLean chooses to say little or nothing about the difficulties of his life, enduring hardships as a good soldier of the cross. We hope this reference may call the attention of some of the friends in the eastern Provinces to us worthy an object as their donations were ever devoted to. The good people of Calgary will be but manifesting still more their noble spirit of generosity by presenting Mr. McLean with the proceeds of a public entertainment.

HANDSAHIMS.

Amongst the engineers' strike, some little excitement was created through the action of some of the strikers, who were reported to have been escorted by train-bound citizens.

Mr. Loughheed having been a full Marine, and he is the only one of getting his name on the list of some kind, would be of some use in a hand car through. Leaving Medicine Hat at Friday noon, he arrived here early on Saturday morning, having been compelled to make the last 12 miles of home stretch by reason of snow on the track. He is of opinion that involving himself in an innocent, yet light and healthful recreation, could not better serve themselves than by pushing a hand car between these two points. The hand, which and the 1,500 feet ascent are peculiarly favorable for strengthening weak constitutions. The distance by train is 180 miles, but the hand car is thought by those who have travelled the latter way, to be about 180,000 miles at the least.

Mr. McLean of Meane, McLean & Thomas, was deposited at the 14th siding, and struck out for home and friends via foot and hand car.

Mr. Henderson being called on Saturday night to 27th siding, to attend the victims of an accident, had the pleasure of revelling in the hand car luxury to that point. On the return trip the hand car mariners hoisted a sheet to the mountain heights, and sailed into port with the speed of a rocket, and Fort McLeod, while looking in the civilization of Calgary, discovered to his dismay that getting to the Hat was not so in a week or two. Five days did the patient train mariners wait to stain his eyes, over the eastern horizon for the smoke of a west bound train, but it smoked not. Patience ceasing to be a virtue, and the hand car possessing no peculiar fascination to him, he devoted an hour and a half in obtaining a full knowledge as to how an engine should be run, and with Napoleonic boldness grasped the lever, over the throttle, shot forth into darkness of night, and according to latest intelligence, arrived a full fledged locomotive engineer into Medicine Hat.

Mr. Raphael, of the C.P.R., store department, while being detained here for the last ten days, has been busily engaged in doing his work to keep it warm. We give appreciation of the results as we think of the slaughter that will show the locomotive engineer's camp when Mr. Raphael strikes it with the fulminations of his wrath.

THE LIMBS OF THE LAW.

Mr. Peterson will eat his Christmas beef in Brandon.

Mr. Perry will hang up his stockings in Toronto about New Year.

Mr. Loughheed will be for Winnipeg some time next week.

Mr. Bleeker expects to go east this week.

The Muirhead Ranch Company, of the United Fruit and Cattle Co., have made application for letters patent of incorporation.

The first fruits of the agitation in the North-west are seen in the fact that Superintendent Egan, of the C.P.R., has given a written guarantee to carry wheat at 20 per cent less than former prices.

The Brandon Advertiser observes: "Foreign consuls are allowed to import articles for their own personal use free of duty. Mr. Nicholas Flood Davis has been appointed Hawaiian consul at Regina. Is this a plan he has adopted to circumvent the mounted police in the matter of whisky flasks?"
